

Summary

Introduction: Tradition in motion

John C. Maher

Part I – National Languages

1. Japanese in the world: The diaspora communities

Kazuko Matsumoto

2. Japanese in Japan: The national language and regional varieties

Junko Hibiya

3. Language communities of the Northern Ryukyus: Okinawan, Amami, and Kunigami

Patrick Heinrich

4. Language communities of the Southern Ryukyus: Miyako, Yaeyama, and Yonaguni

Sachiyo Fujita-Round

5. Japanese Sign Language: A language of the deaf community

Norie Oka

6. Ainu: An urban-rural indigenous language of the North

Hidetoshi Shiraishi

Part II – Community Languages

7. Korean: Transnational links of language and culture

Hye-Gyeong Ohe

8. Chinese: A historic language of cultural influence

Shi Jie

9. Portuguese: Diaspora, ethnolinguistic vitality, and cultural influence

Lucila Etsuko Gibo

10. Spanish: From Renaissance missionaries to the Nikkeijin community

Daniel Quintero

11. Urdu and Hindi: Languages of transnational history, business, and culture

Rika Yamashita

12. Nepali: Out-migration and the evolving diaspora

Tina Shrestha

13. Vietnamese: From refugee community to cultural transitions

Mayumi Adachi

14. Filipino: A nationwide migrant language and culture

Sachi Takahata

15. Burmese: Refugees and Little Yangon

Kosei Otsuka

16. Turkish, Kurdish, and Uyghur: Linguistic and political presence from the Meiji period

John C. Maher

17. Persian: Migration waves and diversification

Hourieh Akbari

Part III – Languages of Culture, Politics, and Modernization

18. English: International language of work and education

Simon Cookson Academic

19. Dutch and German: Mediator languages of science, politics, and law

Florian Coulmas

20. French: Culture, linguistic landscape, and modernization

Simon Tuchais

21. Russian: A historic language community and Russian language education

Petr Podalko

22. Esperanto: Internationalism, dialogue, and an evolving community

Goro Christoph Kimura & Hitosi Gotoo

23. Latin and Sanskrit: Hidden Christians, Buddhism, and religious scholarship

John C. Maher

End Matter: References / Index

