

Summary

List of Tables

Preface

List of Abbreviations

Introduction

1. The Security Council Issue in Japan's UN Policy, 1956-89

Joining the UN

Early UN policy

Moves toward a Security Council bid

Charter revisionism & "quasi" membership ideas

2. Japan's Multilateral Record and the Rationale for the Bid

Japan's diplomacy in the 1990s

The Gulf War, 1991

Japan's role as non-permanent member in Security Council

PKO participation & bid justification

Arguments of prestige, merit, financial power

3. Gathering Support at the Domestic and International Levels

Domestic vs external lobbying

Seeking endorsement from key states (U.S., UK, France, Russia)

Engaging developing countries

Challenges and opposition

4. Japan's Participation in the Working Group on Security Council Reform

History of proposals for Security Council reform

Debates on expanding membership

Issues of veto rights and working practices

Conclusion

Notes, Bibliography, Index