

Summary

Préface / Acknowledgments

Introduction: Meaning and Value in the Everyday

Part I. Recivilization and Reenlightenment: Transitions of the Early Postwar Period, 1945-1971

1. The Imperatives of Waste
2. Better Living through Consumption

Part II. Shocks, Shifts, and Safeguards: Defending Middle-Class Lifestyles, 1971-1981

3. Wars against Waste
4. A Bright Stinginess

Part III. Abundant Dualities: Wealth and Its Discontents in the 1980s and Beyond

5. Consuming Desires
6. Living the Good Life?
7. Battling the Time Thieves

Part IV. Affluence of the Heart: Identities and Values in the Slow-Growth Era, 1991 Present

8. Greening Consciousness
9. We Are All Waste Conscious Now
10. Sorting Things Out

Afterword: Waste and Well-Being

Notes

Bibliography

Index